White Point Golf Course

Sniff out the Lighthouse Route's romantic, rum-running history in cliff-rimmed bays and pretty coves. Sweep up the Evangeline Trail's culturally-rich Acadian Shore, then down into the verdant pastures of the Annapolis Valley. This is the Southwest Golf Region of Nova Scotia, where the breathtaking drama of sea and tide produce two radically different but equally stunning landscapes. Delight in the scents, the sounds and the scenic splendour of our ocean waters as you enjoy panoramic courses.

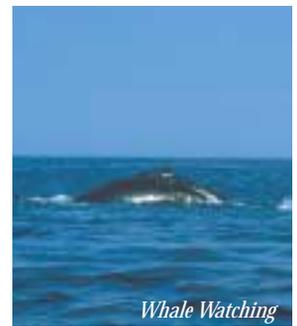

Mahone Bay

boutiques and vibrant folk-art galleries, and enjoy the outstanding hospitality that is a hallmark of the maritime personality.

The Lighthouse Route stretches from Halifax to the outskirts of Yarmouth. Its rocky coast is peppered with innumerable harbours and coves that shelter historic towns and fishing villages from the crashing waves of the mighty Atlantic. Peaceful inlets, 18th-century sea captain's mansions and brightly painted fishing fleets compose the postcard-perfect scenery for which Nova Scotia has become famous. Settle into a luxurious resort hotel, an historic inn, or bed and breakfast and explore these warm and welcoming communities. Wander through first-class craft

Along every mile of the Evangeline Trail are reminders of the billion-tonne tidal force that daily shapes this gently beautiful landscape. The Bay of Fundy boasts the world's highest tides and one of North America's greatest concentrations of marine life. Each year our American neighbours, arriving via ferry from Bar Harbour and Portland, Maine, join Canadian and international visitors for an ocean spectacle that is simply unforgettable. Witness the intelligent play of dolphins, the graceful flight of seabirds and the awesome grandeur of our hump-back whales. Indeed, this is natural beauty at its best.

SIGNATURE RESORTS

golf course

The Pines course is a Stanley Thompson masterpiece that was modernized in 1999 with a completely new irrigation system. The Pines is carved out of a superb setting through an evergreen forest. Many professional golfers consider this to be one of the most challenging and picturesque courses in the country and it has hosted numerous prestigious tournaments.

The course is characterized by a winding brook that has been dammed to create two outstanding par three holes - one of which is the signature second hole. The par 5 number seven hole is a winding, dipping adventure, rated one of the most difficult holes in Canada.

The course is a thoroughly enjoyable and unforgettable golfing layout, immaculately maintained and reputed to be one of the best golf values in the Maritimes. With the recent improvements, 2001 will prove to be a banner year for this wonderful course.

The resort itself is an elegant and classic property that has hosted many sports celebrities over the years and has been rated by Golf Ranking magazine as a "Gold Medal" golf resort.

GLEN ARBOUR

golf course

Welcome to Glen Arbour. As you approach the Clubhouse, you'll sense this is going to be a spectacular round of golf. Whether you're playing the full 18-hole, par 72 course, or our nine-hole par 3, it's a feeling that will continue to grow as you experience all that Glen Arbour offers.

This is the way public golf was meant to be. No matter what your skill level, Glen Arbour challenges and yet also rewards at virtually every turn. Graham Cooke, course designer, seamlessly incorporated sculpted fairways, a minimum of five tee options per hole, paved cart paths and strategically placed hazards.

Glen Arbour, artistically hewn from some of Nova Scotia's most beautiful landscape, frames exquisite views of three shimmering lakes. In fact, so much care has been taken to preserve and reveal its natural beauty that Glen Arbour is a proud Registrant of the Audobon Society.

Loosen up with a few shots on the manicured practice range before you set that tee in the bentgrass and head out for the most enjoyable round you've played in years.

Bay of Fundy

Unearth the ancient secrets of the Glooscap Trail. Bask on the warm sandy beaches of the Sunrise Trail. And cock your ear to the seafaring legends of the Marine Drive. Worthy "off-course" pursuits deepen the pleasure of golfing in Nova Scotia's Northeast Golf Region. Here the seascapes are many and varied and, as throughout Nova Scotia, the ocean is never more than 30 minutes away.

Dabble in a little prehistoric detective work. Every day the surging tides of the Bay of Fundy reveal hundred-million-year-old fossils and semi-precious gems lodged in the Triassic cliffs of the Glooscap Trail. Savour plump blueberries, crisp wines and rich seafood at a gathering of the clans, where the people of the Sunrise Trail celebrate with fiddle and fling their still vibrant Scottish heritage.

Nova Scotia's past springs to life along the Marine Drive, where historic towns and villages vividly recall centuries long gone. Visit a restored 18th-century fishing village at Fisherman's Cove, a 19th-century lumbering and shipbuilding town at Sherbrooke Village and an early 20th-century fisherman's house at the Fisherman's Life Museum. Angle in the Liscombe

Antigonish Highland Games

NOVA SCOTIA

NORTHUMBERLAND LINKS

golf course

Located on the scenic shores of the Northumberland Strait, Northumberland Links is a Scottish links-style course sure to challenge the experts, yet offer playability to the novice golfer.

Designed by Bill Robinson, the layout offers you views of the sea from 16 holes and a view of all three Maritime Provinces. Known for its excellent condition, natural fescue and spectacular scenery, Northumberland's true test is on its championship greens. The smooth, slick greens offer a variety of putts as well as many options for the approach shot. Northumberland Links' signature hole is the fourth hole, a 174-yard par 3 called the Lobster Pot. An accurate tee shot is necessary to avoid the Northumberland Strait and rocky shoreline on the left, a bunker and lobster boat behind the green and mounds on the right. The difficult, sloping green makes four a good score. Northumberland Links measures 6,160 yards from the Middle tees, plays to par 72 and a slope of 127.

Northumberland Links is conveniently located and accessible to golfers living or travelling throughout the Maritime Provinces. Located in Pugwash, Northumberland Links is 2 hours from Halifax, 1.5 hours from Moncton, New Brunswick, and 2 hours from Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. Northumberland Links has become a favourite destination for all who play. Come and enjoy a championship golf course and friendly hospitality. Make Northumberland Links your destination while you are in Nova Scotia.

Holes vary from 70 to 210 yards and the well-stocked fish ponds offer a challenge to any golfer.

A seaside course, Sunrise Beach offers a challenging game that covers nearly 6000 yards over 18 holes. Pleasant and peaceful, the course offers spectacular views of Tatamagouche Bay and the adjacent countryside. Golf Digest

RANKING

Highlands Links, ranked "57th in the World" (Golf Magazine, Sept. 99) and "Number One in Canada" (SCORE Magazine, July 00) is a true links course, framed by the rugged Atlantic coastline and the mountainous contours of the Cape Breton Highlands.

George Knudson, Canada's smooth swinging and most successful PGA professional, called Highlands the "Cypress Point of Canada". He reportedly once said that No. 7 at the Highlands was the best Par Five in the world. As recently as January 2000, # 6 has been ranked at one of Golf Digest's "Top 100 Best Holes in the World."

The credit goes primarily to Stanley Thompson who designed his masterpiece in Cape Breton Highlands National Park. The brilliance of his design is apparent to all with his famous bunkering and magnificent routing winding its way seamlessly through rocky headlands and wooded glens, all the while offering golfers breathtaking mountain and ocean views. The course has stood the test of time celebrating sixty years of golf in 2001.

Thompson left a legacy with the Highlands – a national treasure to be played, experienced and enjoyed! Highlands Links offers an exhilarating challenge to golfers and captures Scottish traditions in both setting and colorful Celtic names for the holes. Having earned a 5-star ranking in Golf Digest's "Best Places to Play" this past year, Highlands Links is now listed among the elite of golf and noted in Golf Digest as "perhaps Canada's finest course."

Thompson's adage that "Nature must always be the architect's model" is fully evident throughout the "topsy turvy fairways, the superb collection of par fives, the strategic, natural holes and the greens that are small and well guarded" (Golf Magazine, Sept 99). Highlands Links is also the first course in Atlantic Canada to hold the designation of "Certified Audubon Co-operative Sanctuary."

BELL BAY golf club

The beautiful Bell Bay Golf Club, in the quaint village of Baddeck, Nova Scotia will play host to the 2001 Wayne Gretzky & Friends Invitational, July 1st and 2nd. Bell Bay sits high above Cape Breton's inland sea, the Bras d'Or Lakes, offering incredible panoramas from almost every hole. The course also overlooks Beinn Bhreagh, Alexander Graham Bell's beloved summer estate.

In 1998, Bell Bay was selected "Best New Canadian Golf Course" by Golf Digest. The routing of the course takes full advantage of the natural features of the land. Each hole has some distinctive element that gives it a memorable character and unique individuality.

Bell Bay is distinguished by its final four holes, which have been called one of the best finishing sequences anywhere. A strong candidate for the signature hole is the seventeenth par 3, "Banshee." The drastic elevation changes, ravine and wooded backdrop offer an illusion to the golfer's normal distance perception and it is easy to underhit the shot. The true signature hole though is saved for last. "Breadalbane" is one of the most scenic tee shots in golf. A sweeping panorama of cliffs and valleys is a backdrop to a hole that winds slightly uphill past a great gorge to the clubhouse.

Overall playability of the course is enhanced by the four distinct teeing areas, positioned to assure both challenge and enjoyment for players of all skill levels.
